POS System

POS Systems are meant for more than just accepting payments. They can streamline your daily workflow with extra services, such as inventory tracking, employee scheduling, and client engagement. POS systems are frequently used by:

- Restaurants (quick and full service)
- Specialty retail
- Small businesses

Stand Alone Terminal

Stand alone terminals are reliable pieces of hardware meant for securely accepting payments, running refunds, and batching out at the end of the day. They get the job done and are perfect for:

- Restaurants
- Retail
- Small businesses
- Utility services
- Car rentals

Gateway

A gateway serves as a virtual terminal. It can also work as a shopping cart and integrate with a website. It is software that performs all of the same functions as a stand alone terminal without the physical piece of equipment to accept a payment. Depending on the gateway there are also other services included. These services include recurring billing options, a customer database, and fraud protection. These are often used by:

- E-commerce
- Retail
- Lodging
